But despite her injuries, Judge Anthony Goldstaub told prosecutors that proceeding with the case could impact on the dignity of the court and urged the Crown Prosecution Service to reconsider whether it was right to continue.

He said he was sorry the victim had

"Apart from public interest in the matter, the defendant is of good character and it is a question of whether a jury can be persuaded to consider a conviction," he said.

Knife victim died from single stab

A HARLOW man accused of the cold-blooded killing of one man and the attempted murder of another has told a jury he was acting in selfdefence.

Chelmsford Crown Court heard that Simon Payne (40), of Spencers Croft, killed Tony Farley (36) with a single stab wound before knifing Clive Edwards (47) three times in the chest at a flat in Pennymead Tower on June 5 last year.

Mr Farley was pronounced dead at the scene after suffering massive internal bleeding, but Mr Edwards survived despite having his right lung punctured by the blade.

Both men had been drinking in the flat owned by Payne's friend, Brian Howes, when the incident happened at around 2.30am.

On the opening day of the trial, prosecutor Andrew Jackson described the fatal attack on Mr Farley as a "cold-blooded murder, almost an execution".

He said the defendant, who denies charges of murder and attempted murder, argued with the victims earlier the same evening and had returned to the flat armed with two knives and intent on killing both men.

"He had no time to react at all," Mr Jackson told the court. "The defendant went straight for him and, as he intended with Mr Farley, so he intended with Mr Edwards and that was to kill him.

"He started stabbing Mr Edwards. He stabbed him three times in the chest and one of those wounds caused a lot of damage. It was potentially life-threatening."

Mr Edwards, who lived in a ground floor flat in the same block, left a trail of blood as he went outside to get help. Giving evidence, Mr Edwards told the jury he had not known who Payne was and could not remember what they had argued about earlier in the evening.

"Tony went to answer the door," he told the court. "He came back into the front room with his arms out and looking down at his chest, sort of backwards. He remained on his feet for a while and then collapsed on the

Police issue CCTV image of supermarket theft suspect

POLICE this week released CCTV images of a man they want to question in connection with the theft of a vacuum cleaner from a Harlow supermarket.

The theft took place at the Tesco store in Edinburgh Way between 9pm and 9.15pm on Thursday, December 9.

It is believed the suspect selected various items of meat and the Dyson vacuum cleaner.

After trying to obtain a refund for them, he left without paying and was confronted by staff members who managed to retrieve the

Insist on a licenced cab

SIR, I would like to take this opportunity to clarify matters regarding the licensing of taxis and private hire cabs in Harlow.

There are cabs operating in the area which are not licenced by Harlow Council. As licenced taxis/ private hire vehicles, we have to pay many hundreds of pounds in licence fees, have CRB checks, a medical, a knowledge test, driving licence checks and can only use a designated MOT station. In addition, we can be pulled over at any time by a licensing officer of the council for a spotcheck on the vehicle and to take a random breathalyser and drugs test.

These are, of course, necessities of the job but Harlow Council has no jurisdiction whatsoever over out-of-town cabs and I would like to make the public aware of that fact. If, for whatever reason, there were grounds for complaint against the driver, then Harlow Council can do absolutely nothing about it.

If the cab has a dome or anything above the roof line then you can guarantee it is not licenced by Harlow Council and I would ask the public not to use them. They can also check the plate at the back of the vehicle or the badge of the driver to ensure it is a Harlow licenced cab.

The whole idea of the licensing system is to protect the public of Harlow and I would urge them, when they phone for a taxi or private hire vehicle, to insist on a vehicle licensed by Harlow Council.

Two-tier education system

SIR, The decision by Passmores School to become an Academy is an appalling act that will be a mortal blow to the idea of comprehensive, egalitarian, democratically controlled education for children in our town.

The Academy scheme is designed to recreate a twotier system of well funded, privileged education for a few. It is a modern reincarnation of the grammar/secondary modern divide.

This notion of privilege was implicit in the original decision to move Passmores from its local community and break with its original purpose to provide egalitarian educational experiences for all children in its catchment area.

At the time, governors and county councillors assured parents it would not become an Academy. That pledge has proven to be worthless. Huge amounts of public money have been invested in that school, investment that will now be taken for the private benefit of a few.

Academies are removed from all local democratic accountability. Sponsors can appoint the majority of governors and are only required to appoint one staff and one parent governor. Furthermore, once the decision is taken to become an Academy the school cannot return to local authority control.

Academies can take control of their own admissions policy and, therefore, can manipulate student intake. They can also ignore nationally agreed pay and conditions for staff. The current headteacher may claim he has no plans to do so but without democratic control over the school the community will not have the power to stop such a change in the

The money made available for schools that opt to become Academies will also be taken from money the local authority holds centrally for support services. This central fund will be reduced accordingly.

It is clear that if the Passmores School governors go

Labour seems addicted to debt

SIR, At Thursday's council meeting there was no alternative from Labour to the Conservative's 2011/12 budget. They spent the whole meeting railing against cuts but offered not one single idea.

They even admitted they would cut Harlow's spending as much as the Conservatives, while blaming the Government for the country's economic woes. They want to solve our massive debt by borrowing more because there's no money left.

They still don't get it. They are addicted to debt, like a shopaholic pinning hopes on a new credit card dropping through the door to borrow enough for this month's payments on all the cards they already spent out.

Even with bailiffs at the door they didn't get it. In its death throes, the Labour government went around dishing out borrowed money in frantic efforts to bribe voters, even against Treasury advice. But this scorched earth plan fooled noone.

They make out it's all someone else's fault. They blame bankers, but Labour was running up this deficit long before banks went bust. They find it impossible to accept responsibility, they evicted. They protest "If only we go on spending, everything will be alright", but they cannot understand basic arithmetic – there is no money left.

In Harlow, Conservatives discovered Labour's irresponsibility a year before the new Government - £20m of residents' money gone on what? While this massive sum trickled through their hands, the Playhouse closed, the swimming pool crumbled, housing deteriorated, the crematorium fell in to a state of dilapidation and the town began to fall to pieces. Even the highest council tax in the country couldn't save them. Now there is no money

We have to deal with their miserable inheritance. They will be round knocking on doors saying vote us back in and everything will be alright again. That will be a blatant lie. They have no ideas, no remorse, no conscience, no plan.

But one Labour politician did understand. It was former Harlow boy Liam Byrne, who left the note to the new Treasury secretary saying 'There is no money left'. He was right.

Councillor Tony Hall Kingsdon Lane, Harlow

ahead with their Academy plans the overall wellbeing of all students and the community will suffer in order to allow an undemocratic, unaccountable institution catering for the few to be created. This may be a vision of paradise for Tories but it is also a recipe for unfairness and division. Other schools must not follow this disgraceful course of action but stand up for fair and equal, democratically controlled inclusive education.

Paul Topley (former Passmores pupil) Altham Grove, Harlow

Best for school and pupils

SIR, Graham Allen has missed the point (Letters, February 10). The reason why the governing body of Passmores School took the decision to become an Academy is that it is in the best interests of the school and the education of the children.

There is no intention to create a two-tier education system in Harlow and there is no change to the admissions policy planned. All of the current teachers' pay and conditions will be unaffected by the change in line with existing employment legislation and there is certainly no intention to replace them with less-qualified teachers.

The governing body fully recognise the need to recruit and retain the best teachers and would do nothing that would jeopardise its ability to do so. Academy status provides the school with a direct funding structure and the flexibility to be more efficient in the buying-in of necessary services. So, ves, the headteacher is correct - there will be no direct impact upon the pupils as the school will continue to strive to provide an OFSTED rated 'outstanding' education to the children of Harlow.

Mike Hardware, governor, Passmores School & Technology College

Question of responsibility

SIR, Further to the letter "Heartless reaction to couple's home plight" (Letters, February 10), I would point out that I started my original letter by saying I felt sorry for the children involved. But no-one forced the young lady in question to have two children with no way of being able to properly afford to keep them without government handouts.

I have no problem with people claiming social welfare if they fall on genuine hard times; it's what it was designed for. What I have a problem with is a 19-year-old having two children with no way of being able to afford them.

If we all decided to do this then the country would be in an even worse situation than we are currently now in economically.

Blaming the current Government is wrong, too. Free-spending Labour got us into this mess, no one

The whole point of my original letter was to put across the point that it takes a bit of common sense and some straight talking to point out that if you can't afford children don't have them. Don't expect the Government to pick up the shortfall in your income. It's called being responsible.

Some people see it as their right to have children when they want, no matter of income. I say, and know other people agree, this is wrong. People need to work towards having children and not see them as way of getting subsidised housing.

And no, I don't work for the council but I do pay

TV service is a turn-off

SIR, Is it just me or have other readers had problems with the company that provides the TV and telephone services at Princess Alexandra Hospital?

My mum was admitted to hospital over a week ago and I subscribed to the TV service for her. There were no headphones available but I was promised that they would be delivered to my mum's bedside later that day.

Despite several calls, nothing happened and I took in headphones from home. After three days a representative appeared with headphones and then discontinued the service that day.

The company does not offer refunds nor extend the service for days their service was paid for but could not be accessed. They do not respond to e-mails or telephone calls. I contacted the patient advice and liaison service but haven't heard from them either. I am cross that sick and vulnerable patients can be treated in this way and feel conned by the company.

Letter delay is shameful

SIR, My husband received a letter on February 9 from the cardiology department of Princess Alexandra Hospital.

This letter had been dictated on December 30, typed on January 11 (two weeks later) and mailed on February 7 (almost a month after it was typed).

They state the service is improving but I think the secretaries need improving.

Cinema? No thank you

SIR, Flo Rayment is absolutely right (Letters, February 10). I no longer go to the cinema, which I love, because of the noise.

The loud conversations from people who think they are more interesting than the movie, the continuous eating and drinking — it's not a restaurant after all—and finally the shuffling, fidgeting and inability of most patrons to concentrate.

Why go to the pictures for all that? Stay at home instead of annoying others . . . or may be that's why they go. It was once a real treat to visit the cinema but now it's a nightmare.

MP backs UK defiance at court ruling on prisoners' right to vote

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon joined the majority who voted against giving prisoners the vote this week. Mr Halfon, who made four interventions during the debate in the House of Commons, also called for the UK to withdraw from the European Court of Human Rights after it threatened to fine the Government tens of millions of pounds if it failed to comply with the ruling. During the debate, Mr Halfon asked why judges sitting in Strasbourg were ordering Britain to give prisoners the right to vote. 'Given that the European Convention of Human Rights was established after the Second World War to ensure the Nazi tragedy never happened again, was it really the case that the founders of the declaration really wanted Albert Speer and Rudolph Hess – two leading Nazis who served long jail sentences post war –to have the vote?" he asked.

The court ruled that a blanket ban against prisoners voting was unlawful in 2005. In June of last year the Council of Europe, which enforces the court's decrees, urged the coalition Government to rectify the situation.

However, on Thursday MPs voted 234 to 22 against the motion which, although not binding, could put pressure on ministers to ignore the court's decision.

Speaking after the debate, Mr Halfon said: "For weeks now we have been told that the European Court of Human Rights will force the Government to give prisoners the vote as this is seen by the judges as a basic human

"The good news is that Parliament will not take this lying down and has now fought back."

A NEW online guide to the digital television switchover has been published by Harlow Council in a bid to reassure residents concerned about the impact of the changes.

With less than a month to go until analogue broadcasting is switched off in the Anglia region, the council has confirmed residents connected to Harlow's wired TV network will not be affected until all three of the regional transmitters serving Harlow are switched to digital.

But as the authority continues its negotiations with network provider Virgin Media, it remains unclear whether households will be forced to pay for a TV upgrade before the final switchover of the London region in 2012.

Council leader Andrew Johnson said this week: "Nego-tiations are continuing with Virgin Media over the future of the wired TV system in the town.
"I can, however, confirm that

Virgin Media will not switch off any resident using the wired TV system while the analogue service remains available.

This means the wired TV system would continue until 2012 when all transmitters for this area will be switched over to digital."

MORE than 400 people enjoyed a taste of the Orient as Harlow Chinese Community Centre ushered in the Year of the Rabbit on Sunday.

The celebrations got off to a colourful start with a dazzling Lion Dance outside the centre in Commonside Road before guests tucked into a buffet and settled down to enjoy live music, dance and poetry readings.

The event was put together entirely by volunteers from the town's Chinese community. Special guests on the day included Harlow MP Rob Halfon and Harlow Council chairwoman Sue Livings.

Janet Hammond, the centre's

Slade hits replaced by the sounds of silence

MUSIC fan who blasted the hits of By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor 1970s glam rockers Slade from his Harlow flat at "deafening" volumes has had his music equipment confiscated after neighbours complained to Harlow Council.

William Jordan (53) was heard playing the glam rock band's 1971 hit "Coz I Luv U" so loudly that the sound could be heard across a neighbouring playing field.

Three environment officers went to the address in Parsonage Leys following repeated complaints by neighbours over the noise levels.

On arrival they heard Slade songs being played from Mr Jordan's first-floor flat at a volume clearly audible outside.

The music was so loud the officers had to knock on the door of the flat in between songs for Mr Jordan to be able to hear them.

Obtaining a warrant on the grounds that Mr Jordan had breached an earlier abatement notice, the team returned to remove the stereo equipment.

Mr Jordan later admitted breaching the order before Harlow Magistrates Court and was fined £100 with £200 costs and a £15 victim surcharge. The council was also granted a forfeiture order which allows the authority to dispose of the music equipment.

Councillor Tony Hall, chairman of Harlow Council's environment policy working group, said:

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

'Noisy neighbours make life a misery for everyone and Mr Jordan had not responded to earlier requests to play his music at a more considerate necessary if people won't listen to reason. This flat block won't feel the noise from Slade for a while, I suspect.

Council leader 'baffled' by empty shops report

NEW research suggesting Harlow has the second highest rate of empty shop units in the east of England has been dismissed as inaccurate by council chiefs.

According to the end-of-year vacancy report compiled by the Local Data Company for 2010, Harlow has seen a five per cent rise in vacancies since last year, climbing from 19.75 per cent at the end of 2009 to 24.8 per cent by the end of December.

The document claims one in every four shops in Harlow is empty, with only Dunstable worse off with an overall vacancy rate of 26.5 per cent.

Glenys Chatterly, chairwoman of the Mid and North West Essex branch of the Federation of Small Businesses, described the report's findings as "very worrying".

She added: "We need to make sure the retail offer in Harlow is the right one for the area so that shoppers find it attractive which in turn means that retailers will thrive and want to be part of the Harlow shopping experience.

But Harlow Council leader Andrew Johnson said the figures were inaccu-

"We are baffled by how the Local Data Company has arrived at these figures," he told the Star. "They are neither accurate. nor do they reflect the trend of investment in Harlow.

"As the FSB itself acknowledges, Harlow Council is working hard to attract businesses to the region.

"In the longer term there are ambitious plans to redevelop the north of the town, but in the short term the arrival of upmarket brands like H&M shows that retailers do recognise the value of investing here.

"Large parts of the town are thriving, and that is obvious to anyone who vis-

Harvey Centre manager Bryan Young agreed, claiming the vacancy rate given in the report was much lower in reality.

"The Harvey Centre has been performing particularly well over the past six months, with one new shop opening on average every month," he said.

"There are 162 shops and kiosks that fall within the Harvey Centre's owner-ship, including those in Little Walk, West Gate, East Gate, Broad Walk and Harvey Centre Approach. Of these, just 26 remain unlet.

"This gives a vacancy rate of 16 per cent, far lower than that suggested by the Local Data Company.

Generous Star readers bring trike joy to Tia

Bv VICKY LANE vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

DISABLED toddler Tia Hunt has taken her first ever bike ride after an overwhelming response from Star readers made her dream come true.

Two weeks ago we reported how Tia's mum was appealing for help to raise the £1,250 she need to buy her daughter a specialised tricycle.

Tia (3) suffers from Dipelgia Cerebral Palsy, a condition which causes delayed muscle growth, stiff joints and a lack of co-ordination and balance.

The modified tricycle will not only allow Tia to ride with her twin sister Mia and four other siblings, but also provide vital physiotherapy for her condition. Within a week of the story appearing in the Star, the money had been raised.

Tia's mum, Larinna Penman, of Potter Street, Harlow, said: "She absolutely loves it. I wish people could have seen the smile on her face the moment she received it. It was just wonderful!

"It's really good for her condition as well. The bike makes her legs move separately which will really help with her co-ordination and overall movement.

"I was so amazed by how large and quick the response to the Star's appeal was. It's incredible to know that there are so many generous people out there who care. I want to thank everyone who donated from the bottom of my heart; it really is amazing.' Larinna's fundraising drive was supported by national children's charity Caudwell. Chief executive Trudi Beswick said: "We are overwhelmed with the fantastic response since launching Tia's appeal to get her this piece of equipment.

"The reaction was that great that it allowed us to order Tia's equipment almost straight away. "The success of this appeal is a credit to the local community and we cannot thank everyone enough for their support.

Anneka presented with Scouting's top honour

A YOUNG woman from Harlow has achieved the highest award in Anneka De'ath, of the 1st Great Parndon Scouts, was presented with the Queen Scout Award after completing five demanding sections: service, skills, physical recreation, expedition and residential.

Despite having other commitments the determined 25year-old, who grew up in Taylifers, successfully juggled her studies with Scouting to achieve her goal, even travelling to Australia to complete the award

Anneka, who now lives in Suffolk but travels back to Harlow each week to help lead the 1st Parndon troop, said: "Completing the award was great fun. I learnt new skills, met new friends and got to do lots of activities I wouldn't usually do. "It took a lot of hard work and commitment but it was all worth it to be able to say that I have received her award. "She really is a Scout through and through and always commits herself in every way she can. We really are all so proud of her."

Anneka was presented with the award during a ceremony at the Science Museum where she met Chief Scout Bear Grylls, pictured

She will also attend the National Scout Service at Windsor Castle. The Queen Scout Award recognises extremely high standards of self-discipline leadership and achievement in activities, interests and community service.

There's sew much to do at embroidery club

NIMBLE-fingered residents are invited to share their creative ideas and learn new skills with a local crafts group.

The Harlow Embroiderer's Guild, which has been running for more than 30 years, is encouraging anyone with a passion for embroidery, knitting, fashion or fabrics to join them at their monthly meetings.

Valerie Child, the guild's communications administrator, said: "It is a fantastic society that brings people of all ages and abilities with a passion for crafts together.

"We have many activities throughout the year such as special speakers, exhibitions and competitions, and we hold workshops where we make anything from silk cushions to felt birds.

The guild meets on the first Monday of every month at St Mary Magdalene Church Hall in Potter Street. For more information, contact Elizabeth Neave on (01279) 411775.

Spending cuts to save council £2m

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Council's first Conservative budget under a Tory-led Government has been branded a "needless attack" on the town by opposition councillors.

lated for being "unfair and unnecessary" by Labour members and criticised by Liberal Democrats, the cost-cutting proposals were pushed through at a fiery meeting of the full council on Thursday.

The spending blueprint – which includes a freeze on council tax, the closure of public toilets, above-inflation rent rises for council tenants and 22 redundancies - will save the cash-strapped authority £2.1m over the next financial year.

But Labour councillors claimed the cuts went too deep, blasting the Government for slashing the council's revenue support grant by 25 per cent over the next two years.

Cheered on by placard-bearing members of political pressure group Harlow Against The Cuts sitting in the public gallery following an earlier protest outside the Civic Centre, Labour group leader Mark Wilkinson laid into the town's third Conservative budget.

"These cuts are unfair and unnecessary," he said. "Harlow has received the lowest grant settlement in Essex and yet we are one of the most deprived towns.

'This has led to the Tory administration making cuts to important frontline services like public toilets and environmental health, hiking up car park fees and council tenants' rents and making hard-working staff redundant.

"This is just the start. What have we got coming next year?"

Yet despite his group's stinging criticism of the administration's spending plans, Cllr Wilkinson said Labour members had agreed not to put forward an amended budget as they could not justify the scale of cutbacks being proposed by the Tories.

This drew a fierce rebuke from council leader Andrew Johnson who described it as a

FLASHBACK: Star, January 27

"disgraceful misrepresentation of Labour

Liberal Democrat group leader Chris Millington told the meeting his group had attempted to put forward an amended budget seeking savings through the renegotiation of senior council officers' salaries but had been refused on legal grounds.

"It seems perfectly OK to increase salaries but almost impossible to move things the other way," he said. "It's crazy that chief executives can earn a similar amount to the Prime Minister."

He added: "I also have a number of other concerns about this budget, particularly around the closure of public toilets, which will have a huge impact on the elderly, vulnerable and disabled."

But responding to his critics, Councillor Johnson put up a stubborn defence of his group's spending plans, blaming the necessity for cuts on what he dubbed "Gordon Brown's recession".

"If Labour were really so concerned about the effect of our spending plans on Harlow residents they would have moved an alterna-tive budget," he said.

"The fact is that this is a very, very good budget for Harlow residents considering the disastrous financial situation the country was left in by the previous Labour Government.

"Despite cuts to our grants settlement, we have managed to protect popular discre-tionary services like The Playhouse and Pets' Corner while freezing council tax for the second year running.

"We care about this town and we want to do the best for its residents.

Bingo club adds to charity total

The club, in Terminus Street, was one of 103 across the country which took part in fundraising activities for Marie Curie Cancer Care.

The total raised by all clubs was £287,000.

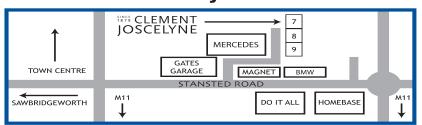

Alex Cook, manager of the Harlow club, thanked staff and customers for their efforts and support. "I've been so impressed with the drive and enthusiasm the team members have shown over the past year when it came to organising fundraising events at the Star newsdesk (01279) 451545

MARK HALL: Pupils at the First Avenue secondary school raised more that £400 for the children's ward at Princess Alexandra Hospital by swapping their normal school attire for casual clothes during a non-uniform day.

The money was used to purchase toys and equipment, including baby monitors, cot mobiles, computer games and a play pen.

Some of the pupils joined assistant headteacher June Tulloch to hand over the gifts to nursing staff at the Harlow hospital.

Ms Tulloch said: "The children really enjoyed the non-uniform day and those that went to the hospital really enjoyed giving the equipment to the Dolphin Ward.

"We wanted to support a local cause because it's great for the children to be able to go down and see who the equipment is going to. It helps them understand what charity is all about."

Rachael Naunton, play specialist on Dolphin Ward, added: "We really appreciate all donations and the generosity of these local schoolchildren will help to ensure that our young patients have a positive experience while staying in Youngsters from High Wych Primary School took part in a fun-packed technology taster class at the First Avenue secondary school.

Advanced skills teacher Alec Laing and technician Andy Lee gave the visiting Year 5 pupils a design brief to plan and construct a bridge out of art straws.

The children were divided into six groups and each group was given the same materials to use. The winning team, pictured, built a 60cm bridge that could hold 3.5kg! Mr Laing said: "The visit was set up to introduce the children to technology and discourage the myth that it is a boys-only subject. "The feedback was very positive. They all had a brilliant time learning about the science of technology and the importance of teamwork."

STEWARDS: Students paid a visit to the Science Alive gallery at the Harlow Leisurezone where they took part in a teacher-focused event.

The students were attending a 'Bringing Learning to Life' day to test out interactive workshops and exhibitions being used to promote science in local schools.

Throughout the day they were involved in science and maths activities, visited the inflatable planetarium and made air rockets before investigating the natural world at Parndon Wood Nature Reserve.

Science curriculum development manager Geraldine Wright said: "The Science Alive group were really showing off what they can do for schools and teachers with our students and it was very impressive.

"All the students really enjoyed the day and as most of them hadn't been to Science Alive before it was great that they got the opportunity to go down and see what the group have to

ELEANOR PATMORE talks to Harlow College principal Colin Hindmarch

S a devoted grandfather who just happens to be principal of Harlow College, Colin Hindmarch has more than a paternal interest in his grandson Harry's education.

At 11-years-old, Harry is still a few years away from sitting his GCSEs. But when that day arrives Mr Hindmarch is confident that when it comes to choosing where to continue his studies, there will only be one real option.

And if Harlow College – once threatened with special measures – continues its upward trajectory, there is a very good chance that Harry will be enrolling alongside the increasing number of students from outside the town who are choosing to attend the campus.

campus.

"By the time my grandson leaves school I want the only clear choice to be for him to come here," said Mr Hindmarch, who lives in Bishop's Stortford. "By then we have to be delivering the best results – better than Bishop's Stortford College – and we are closing in on them. He is only 11 so we've got time."

A recent Ofsted report concluded that Harlow College was "good with outstanding features", while 2010's overall success rate of 80 per cent puts it in the top two per cent of the 238 further education college in the country. For value-added, it ranks second nationally.

It is a far cry from the furore that followed Mr Hindmarch's arrival at the college in 2007 when he introduced a controversial new teaching and learning strategy. In the months following his appointment, all the teaching staff were re-interviewed for their jobs, with more than 100 of the 179 tutors taking redundancy or being made redundant.

"There will always be people who want to blame the students rather than accept responsibility themselves, but wherever I've encountered that in the past it's always been a minority," he said.

"Here there was a widespread opinion that basically the students weren't up to it but in fact the reverse is true. The results speak for themselves."

Mr Hindmarch said he could never have envisaged the backlash that his vision for the college would create, resulting in strikes, a legal dispute with the University and College Union, an employment tribunal and clashes with former Harlow MP Bill Rammell, who at the time was minister for further and higher education.

"It's extremely difficult when the local MP believes that you're wrong and taking the college backwards and not forward," he said. "There were a number of dark moments but there was no point at which I seriously considered walking away.

COLIN HINDMARCH: "I take a personal interest in every single student. It's my fault if a student is failing, I can't blame anyone else"

"If I had done that then I would have left the organisation worse off then when I started and ultimately I would have been damaging the future of those students at the college."

A number of new learning strategies can be credited for the college's success. As well as introducing new systems to track students' progress, Mr Hindmarch has introduced a radical new approach to teaching where the tutors set daily objectives that must be met before students are allowed to go home.

"People often think that if you go to college then the staff have relatively little interest in individuals, but I've never been anywhere that is so intensely focused and supportive of students," he said.

"Every day every student is being monitored for progress and if they are not achieving then I want to know why. I expect my staff to be able to answer any question I throw at them about their students without referring to their notes. No-one is allowed to fall behind."

Mr Hindmarch has always been highly motivated and it is his unshakeable sense of confidence and determination that drives him.

In his early 20s he learned Gujarati before leaving his job – against the advice of his boss – and selling his car to travel to India to pursue the love of his life.

He said he fell in love with his wife Kunjan at first sight and had to persuade her entire family to allow him to marry her. They have now been married for 34 years and have two grown-up daughters – Meena (33), a paediatrician, and Sonali (31), an ITN broadcast journalist.

They chose to make Bishop's Stortford their home when Mr Hindmarch took up the post at Harlow and he has been following that town's current super-school debate with interest. He certainly has personal experience of the controversy that can be whipped up when not everyone agrees with your vision.

The key, according to Mr Hindmarch, is keeping the best interests of students at the very heart of everything you do. It is this that helped him weather the storm of protest to his own grand plans for change – and has made Harlow College's change of fortunes all the more sweeter.

"I take a personal interest in every single student. It's my fault if a student is failing, I can't blame anyone else," he said.

"It's been bleak at times and, yes, I would have much preferred to get to this point with peace and harmony than go through all that difficulty. When a large number of people say very publicly you're wrong then it's nice to say I wasn't."

The Big Society? It's already here

IT was John Prescott who once joked that to find a book on Tony Blair's "third way" philosophy of politics, you needed to look in the mystery section of the bookshop.

Fast forward to today and the Government's concept of the Big Society is creating bemusement in some quarters. What is it? How does it work? In Liverpool, the city council has decided to dump the Big Society idea before they have even tried it. I think that is shortsighted.

To me, the Big Society is about giving residents more control over their lives and allowing them to run more local authority services. It is not about waiting for a cheque to arrive from the Chancellor to underwrite it.

Here in Harlow, the Big Society idea isn't new.

We have done things like hand over Sumners Recreation Centre to the Great Parndon Community Association: Dashes Play Centre to Young Concern and the tennis and bowls facilities at Latton Bush to community groups. Or look at Bush Fair Play Barn - now run by the Sea Cadets – or Norman Booth Recreation Centre which was handed over to BATTS table tennis club. The savings demanded by central Government means the Big Society makes good business sense for councils as we will clearly save money. But the Big Society is about more than volunteering; it is about a new relationship with our residents.

At the last full council meeting in Harlow, the budget debate was watched by some protesters with anti-cuts placards. I understand their concern, but in reality local authority budgets are never going to recover and we have to look at new ways of running our services.

What do Star readers think? What council services might you like to run? Let's discuss this together and use the Big Society to return more power to Harlow people!

The hemit who lived in a cave lined with cash lined with cash his own lifetime

Bv VICKY LANE

COUPLE of weeks ago we asked Nostalgia readers if they had any memories of a local character called Charlie Haddock or, as he was more commonly known, the Harlow Hermit.

The response was overwhelming - the biggest we have ever had about an item featured in Nostalgia.

Many wrote in to tell us about their memories or to correct discrepancies in our originally reported story about his life living in a cave lined with £5 notes by the side of the railway tracks.

We decided it would be best to share snippets from everyone's stories and let our readers make up their own minds about the whole extraordinary tale.

"My sister and I would call in and see him in the summer holidays as our mother kept chickens and we would take him some eggs and he gave us two shillings and sixpence each. Sometimes we would go in the hut but it was a bit smelly."

Mrs G. Turner Old Road, Old Harlow

"I worked at St Margaret's Hospital where he was a patient. He used to tell us about his time in Texas living with the Indians and drilling for oil. When he died he left $8,000 – but who to?"

Mr I. Honnis Watersmeet, Harlow

"As a youngster living in the 1940s at Sheering, me and my mates would often visit the area where Charlie lived. He kept us lads fascinated with his tales of travel, woodcraft and ability to catch and cook a rabbit. He knew it all!"

> Mr D.J. Sawyer The Fortunes, Harlow

"When me and my friends were about 10-13 years old we used to visit Charlie. He would give us a glass of lemonade and show us his skill with his catapult and would have birds and rabbits hanging up in the trees for his food.'

> Mr William Brown Bullfields, Sawbridgeworth

"I can recall one of his stories. He was walking in the woods when he fell down this enormously deep bear pit. Whilst trying to get out he saw this huge snake, and it came towards him, curled himself around him and up and up it went to the top and out. He managed to grab hold of its tail and it pulled him out as he went. They were good tales and we really believed them!"

Spruce Hill, Harlow

"My mum met Charlie. She was born in 1924 and her and the other kids would go and see Charlie and hear his stories. She never told me he had money on the walls (of his cave) but said he painted stars and moons upon it."

Anonymous

"The reason he said he lived in the cave was because he had been gassed in World War I in France and needed to live out in the fresh air. Previously he had lived in Epping Forest but the forest rangers did not like the attention he gave

This faded picture of Charlie with his dog is This laded picture of charle with mis adds believed to have been taken near his cave. to the fallow deer and when things got too heated he moved to Harlow

Colin Porcher St John's Avenue, Harlow

"Myself and my twin brother, Robin, often visited Charlie the Hermit. Indeed, he did live initially in an earth dug out but then moved upmarket to a small nissan hut. He was a genuine man who was very kind to all the children that visited. What would people have made of it nowadays?"

Martin Gladwin East Park, Harlow

"He had pure white hair and was a formidable sight walking alongside the railway track, swag bag over his shoulder, making his way to Old Harlow. Rumour had it he had lost a lung and had been advised to live the outdoor life. He was such a legendary figure in my young days and his life came to a very sad end.

Judy Marshment The Hoo, Old Harlow

From the pages of the Star 25 years ago

"Both my sister and I, who then worked in the International Stores in Old Harlow, remember him as a well-spoken week to get his groceries and cash in a private cheque understood to be from the Navy. He would sign the back of the cheque in impeccable handwriting.

Joyce Wright Greygoose Park, Harlow

"I am an Old Harlow girl and he invited me and my friend into his home once and we had a chat. From what I can remember of the cave it was pretty plain with carpet or lino on the floor and it was cosy with some sort of lighting. I was between 11-13 years old at the time and he was quite a pleasant man."

Priscilla Guiness Potter Street, Harlow

"My dad used to take me to his hut by the railway line down near the Moors. The steam train drivers used to throw him coal to keep warm. [His hut was not lined with £5 pound notes but sacking and covered outside in corrugated iron panels. After it caught fire he moved to Robarts farm in Lower Sheering in a caravan which was parked under a barn.'

> Sandra Holder (formerly of Sheering, now living in Epping)

"The first time I remember meeting Charlie was when I was about three or four years old. I used to go to church on a Sunday morning with my siblings and in the shop on Station Parade he'd regularly buy us a sweet each. I since found out he was using his sweet coupons for us. I was 8-10 years old when I got to know him better and he taught us how to make catapults and skin rabbits.

> Chris Rees The Hides, Harlow

"My father used to tell me stories of Charlie the Hermit who lived in a cave. He would often walk to Charlie's den with a cake or something hot that my Nan had cooked for him to make sure he was OK. My dad used to spend hours with Charlie and was really upset when he passed away.

A hoax bomb alert in the Harvey Centre left shoppers out in the cold for over two hours on Saturday morning. The centre was evacuated after youngsters reported a suspicious looking device in the toy department at Tesco to staff, causing chaos as half-full trolleys were left all around the aisles.

Sledge victim

A young girl out tobogganing narrowly avoided death when her sleigh skidded onto the path of an oncoming vehicle on Sunday evening. The 15-year-old was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital with concussion and bruises, although she was allowed home the following Tuesday. Police had previously warned youngsters about the dangers of sledging on the junction at First Avenue.

Wire-walking daredevil is on top of the world!

A WACKY tightrope walker has set a new world record by completing his latest stunt on a cable car wire suspended nearly two miles above the ground!

Daredevil Freddy Nock (46) did not even use a harness or safety nets during the gravity-defying walk near the Swiss mountain resort of St Moritz. Using only a balancing stick, the circus acrobat risked his life as he inched his way along the wire on Mount Corvatsch for more than a mile, starting from a cable car station at an altitude of 3,300m and finishing at another station 2,700m above sea level.

Nock, who started learning acrobatic skills at the age of four, successfully completed his walk on the second attempt after bad weather forced him to stop earlier in the day.

The Swiss high-wire artist has previously performed similar stunts for charity, staging a climb over the slopes of Germany's highest mountain and walking along a wire suspended 900m above Lake Zurich.

HARLOW Stadium hit the bullseye at the weekend when a charity darts night in aid of The Retired Greyhounds Trust raised in excess

More than 450 people attended the event during which Australian darts pro Simon 'The Wizard' Whitlock took on five members of the audience who bid the most to play him in games of 101.

Mick Godderidge, promotions director for the stadium, said: "It was a really great night which had an incredible turnout.

"Unfortunately, the five members of the audience who got to play Simon were well and truly beaten. He tried to give them a chance but it didn't seem to help much!

"Still, if you're going to be beaten by anyone it may as well be by the best."

He added: "We want to say a huge thank you to everyone who turned up on the night and helped raise so much money for The Retired Greyhounds Trust. It really is appreciated and we'll definitely be looking at doing something similar again soon."

Simon Whitlock is pictured, third left, with the five who challenged him to a game.

Map points way to town's sculptures

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW'S attempts to become a tourist hotspot for art lovers have been boosted by the launch of a new map and website signposting the town's impressive collection of public sculptures.

The pocket-sized sculpture map – a joint venture between Friends of Harlow Sculpture Collection, Harlow Art Trust, Harlow Council and Harlow Renaissance – has been designed to be a handy companion for visitors setting off on their own tour of the town's treasures.

The guide lists the locations of 79 works currently on display across the town – recently rebranded Harlow Sculpture Town by the council – together with photographs, details of the artist and information on the sculpture's acquisition.

It is complemented by an informative website.

www.friendsofharlowsculpture. org.uk, where more information can be found on the town's outstanding collection of works by internationally acclaimed sculptors including Henry Moore, Gerda Rubenstein and August Jackie Storey, chair of the Friends of Harlow Sculpture Collection, told the Star: "The map and website are the final pieces of the jigsaw as far as Harlow Sculpture Town is concerned. Both are fantastic resources for people keen to find out more about our exceptional collection of public sculpture.

"Sculpture has always been part of the heart and soul of Harlow and always

"It has become part of everyday life for people living in Harlow and residents rightly feel proud and protective of the work on display in their town.

"We were the first town to take public sculpture out of the art gallery and into the open air and we're still doing it

She added: "The town is often unfairly knocked by those not living here. Hopefully the map and website will go some way towards changing perceptions of Harlow and encouraging more people to visit." The Harlow Sculpture Map is available now from The Gibberd Gallery, the Museum of Harlow, St John"s ARC, The Gibberd Garden and libraries across the town.

>music Internationally acclaimed clarinet and saxophone player Sammy Rimington joins local drumming ace John Petters and his New Orleans All Stars for a special evening of hot New Orleans jazz next Thursday (February 24). The concert starts at 8pm and tickets cost £10 from (01406) 365731.

THE LINK Parsloe Road, Harlow (01279) 442447

>>music Harlow Accordion Club >>music Harlow Accordion Club hosts a live concert featuring virtuoso accordionist Stefan Andrusyschyn and opera singer Denise Leigh at The Link tonight (Thursday). The performance begins at 7.30pm and tickets cost £7.50 on the door or £7 in advance from (01279) 432830.

Exhibition paints a rural view of town

A NEW exhibition celebrating Harlow's often-overlooked rural setting is challenging preconceptions of the town as a concrete jungle.

Serendipity Art Group's The Stort Valley shifts the focus onto the beautiful countryside surrounding the town and features stirring scenes of nature sketched or painted on location.

The works include studies of beauty spots in Harlow, Bishop's Stortford and Roydon. Group tutor Alan Burgess said: "This is an exciting exhibition in a range of painting and drawing media.

"Group members have made trips to various locations to make studies on the spot and guests attending the opening were impressed by the quality and variety of the works."

of the works.

ACCORDING to The X-Files, the truth is out there. But you won't find it in Simon Pegg and Nick Frost's fantastical road movie. In the same way that Shaun Of The Dead gleefully gnawed the funny bone of the zombie horror genre and Hot Fuzz took aim at the countryside cop drama, Paul impishly probes feelgood sci-fi adventure ET: The Extra-Terrestrial.

Spielberg's earthbound alien was a cute and cuddly creature who just wanted to phone home, but he bears little resemblance to Pegg and Frost's little grey man.

Their otherworldly visitor smokes pot, glugs beer and exposes his backside through the windscreen of a Winnebago. He can also turn himself invisible as a camouflage defence mechanism and magically re-animate the dead, providing the film with one of its funniest sequences.

Director Greg Mottola's adventure opens in 1947 Wyoming with a spacecraft crash-landing on top of a red setter called Paul. Flashing forward to present day San Diego, best friends Graeme Willy (Pegg) and Clive Gollings (Frost) wander dumbstruck around the comic book and populgr arts convention. Comicand popular arts convention, Comic-

There they meet famous sci-fi author Adam Shadowchild (Jeffrey Tambor) before embarking on a road trip across America, stopping at locations associated with alien contact including Area 51, the Extraterrestrial Highway and the Black Mailbox.

En route, Graeme and Clive encounter Paul (voiced by Seth Rogen), a potty-mouthed alien who is stranded on Earth and is being hunted by mysterious special agent Zoil (Jason Bateman).

The pals agree to help Paul return home, abducting Ruth (Kristen Wiig), the one-eyed daughter of Bible-bashing trailer park owner Father Moses (John Carroll Lynch), along the way.

Meanwhile, Zoil recruits two bungling FBI agents Haggard (Bill Hader) and O'Reilly (Joe Lo Truglio), to apprehend Graeme and Clive British audiences love the double-act of Pegg and Frost. Their natural chemistry and sharp comic timing compels us to back Graeme and Clive as they risk life, limb and an expensive replica sword to deliver their otherworldly buddy to his

Wiig is adorable as the visually impaired love interest and Rogen brings a roguish charm to his titular hero, becoming mock-serious when he imparts the secret of the universe. Next to Shaun Of The Dead and Hot Fuzz, Paul does feel a little flat but Pegg and Frost paper over the cracks with nods and winks to classic fantasy and sci-fi films. In-jokes abound referencing the warehouse in Raiders Of The Lost Ark, Ripley's battle cry from Aliens and an iconic mountain from another Spielberg

Considering how many of the laughs in Paul come from other sources, perhaps a more apt title would have been Close Encounters Of The

BACK in 2008, American talent agent Scooter Braun saw footage of 14-year-old Justin Bieber singing his heart out in videos which had been uploaded to a popular sharing website. Braun subsequently introduced the teenager to singing superstar Usher, who became a mentor and helped the teenager land a recording contract as well as tutoring him in the skills necessary to endure in the

The following year, Bieber began his assault on the global music scene with his debut single One Time and a superstar was born, leading to subsequent singles Baby, USmile and Somebody To Love.

Director Jon Chu (Step Up 2: The Streets, Step Up 3D) celebrates the meteoric rise of the young singer with this documentary, which combines behind the scenes footage and interviews with performances of his hits. Following the lead of two other recent concert films Jonas Brothers: The Concert Experience and Hannah Montana & Miley Cyrus: Best Of Both Worlds Concert Never Say Never screens in 3D, transporting fans into Bieber's world of screaming fans and celebrity pals.

True Grit Following the murder of her father by hired hand Tom Chaney, 14-year-old farm girl Mattie Ross (Hailee Steinfeld) sets out to capture the killer. To aid her she hires the toughest US marshal she can find, Reuben J 'Rooster' Cogburn (Jeff Bridges). Mattie insists on accompanying Cogburn, whose drinking, sloth, and generally reprobate character do not inspire her faith in him.

The Fighter Micky (Mark Wahlberg) is a talented boxer who has always languished in the shadow of his half brother Dicky (Christian Bale). Trained by Dicky and managed by his mother, Alice (Melissa Leo), Micky accepts lacklustre fights for scant rewards until he is persuaded to cut himself loose from his loved ones and punch above his weight for the first time in his life. As Micky tastes victory and his confidence grows, he faces the possibility of a shot at the world title.

The King's Speech Winner of seven BAF TAs and nominated for 12 Oscars, The King's Speech tells the story of how newly crowned King George VI (Colin Firth) overcomes a crippling stammer which renders him unable to deliver public addresses.

Price £345,000

Agent Geoffrey Matthew Estates, 47 High Street, Old Harlow. Telephone (01279) 444988

ON the market with Geoffrey Matthew Estates, this three/four bedroom property is in Millersdale, a small cul-de-sac of detached homes in the Kingsmoor area of Harlow

A covered front porch leads into the entrance hallway, which has white panelled doors to the rest of the downstairs accommodation and laminate flooring.

There is a downstairs cloakroom and modern kitchen with heated ceramic tiled floor, breakfast bar and plenty of working surfaces with tiled splash backs.

The open plan lounge/diner has patio doors and a full length window to the rear. Also downstairs is a study or fourth bedroom.

Upstairs, the airing cupboard houses a new gas combination boiler installed just nine months ago.

One of the three bedrooms has a built-in double wardrobe, while another has a builtin cupboard.

The family bathroom features a modern white suite with panelled bath and power shower, and laminate flooring

Outside, the front garden and drive is about 77ft long with an attached garage and workshop. The garage has an up-and-over front door as well as power and light.

The back garden has an attractive patio area with steps leading down to a summer house. There is a large lawn area with mature hedging and borders, leading to a further patio at the bottom corner of the garden.

Call Geoffrey Matthew Estates on (01279) 444988 for further details.

On the market for £925,000

HIGH House in Sheering Road, Old Harlow, is an unusual property built with a remarkable combination of 16th century techniques.

This mysterious house has gradually changed over the intervening years. The Victorians have had particular influence, remodelling it to as it is now, a generous, individual five/six bedroom home with three living rooms. There is also the opportunity to have an annex and guest suite within the layout.

There are many unusual features including a pair of turning staircases rising to the bedrooms. Call agents Howick and Brooker on (01279) 418888 today to arrange a viewing of this unique property.

Priced at £369,950

THIS four-bedroom detached house in Waterhouse Moor, Harlow, has been extended to provide generous family accommodation.

There is an impressive lounge, separate dining area and a study. The large kitchen is extensively fitted with a range of built-in appliances.

All bedrooms are large with the main bedroom extending to 22'7. The second bedroom has a door leading through to the fourth bedroom.

To the front the drive offers parking for two vehicles. The garden faces west and features decking and a large expanse of lawn.

Did anyone see THAT programme last Wednesday?

Wedinesday:

9th February, Channel 4

Bit of agent bashing I thought. I am surprised and pleased that many people who have spoken to me since the broadcast felt the interviewer had an issue with estate agents in general!

There were a number of good points raised about general attitude of some agents, for example, when customers entered their offices sales staff should stand to receive them and should also have a good knowledge about the houses being sold.

No problem with that, it's knowing your product that is important and the area you trade in. Mind you, she should join us sometime on a dark winters night in some parts of the town. It can be hard to raise your game in a biting zero temperature when the couple due to view the property are half an hour late and the owner of the house leaves the heating

This reminded me of an occasion, a few years ago, of a cottage out in the country, in the middle of winter, and pouring with rain. I ran to the front door and bashed into the porch splitting my head open! The lady I was showing round, had a baby 'in arms' and gave me one of her child's nappies to wipe the blood from my forehead! Dangerous job being an estate agent

Topless BMW is a breath of fresh air

By Iain Dooley

F you're going to be bold you can't always be beautiful. And if there's a company executive nodding at that statement it will be one from BMW.

Certainly, the German firm hasn't been afraid to push challenging designs in recent years.

One such model that caused a stir was the previous generation 6 Series. Along with the 5 and 7 Series models from the same era, BMW's desire to break away from the safe, conservative design language of old was evident from every

It proved to be a popular car on the world stage. And in convertible form the combination of interior space, drop-top practicality, BMW's trademark driving dynamics and a small but impressive choice of engines did much to boost its appeal.

Second time around and, while the car's profile will be familiar to many, the exterior changes are just enough to soften the car's once controversial nose and tail. The front now has shades of the latest 5 Series, while at the rear there's a more conventional profile to the boot lid.

Despite the changes, this 6 Series remains a big, imposing car. That's no bad thing in what is a hugely competitive, if FACT file small, marketplace. If you want to make a statement, the 6 Series Convertible is a good place to start

And don't forget that this car is one of only a few offering four seats. The rear chairs might be modest but, if you have children, it might be the difference between purchasing and going elsewhere.

As before, another tempting feature of the 6 Series Convertible is its engine lineup. At launch it can be had with either a 4.4-litre turbo V8 outputting 407 horsepower or a 3.0-litre turbo motor with 320 horsepower. These petrol units promise improved economy and emissions performance over their respective redecessors, while the 3.0-litre, 640i-badged car boasts engine stop-start and other Efficient

It's the 650i-badged V8 that's going to grab all the headlines for now, though. Its flagship status will be embraced with open arms in the likes of North America – its biggest market – and the Middle East. As such, the car"s character is a combination of big car refinement and big engine performance.

On paper that might sound like a compromise but in reality the 650i is one of those rare beasts a convertible offering the long-legged performance of a premium saloon and the pace of a high power sports coupe. And in reality that's exactly what you get. Thanks to the V8 engine's elastic power delivery and generous 442lb/ft torque rating, it's rare that you need to bother the eight-speed auto gearbox. When you do, the paddleshifters are a pleasing tactile interface.

Manual control or not, it's the engine that dominates the overall experience and its hardedged growl is never far away.

If that's not a surprise, the 650i's agility will be to some critics. In traditional Grand Touring style, the car is most at home on long straights and gently winding roads. But when asked, it will also deliver the goods on a more challenging better Tarmac suited to much smaller cars. This ability is enhanced by BMW's suite of driver aids. With the firm's Adaptive Drive package, the car's suspension adapts to the changing conditions and is also charged with minimising body roll. An added dimension is the ability to manually select from a comfort, normal and two-stage sport setting.

Integral Active Steering further improves the car's agility by boosting steering assistance up front and adding a subtle rear-steer effect at the back.

Overall, this hi-tech approach to driver entertainment works well. With all those modes at your disposal it's possible to fine tune the car to a variety of situations in a bid to seek maximum comfort or driving enjoyment.

At the end of the day, though, driving enjoyment in the context of a premium class convertible means one thing – roof down motoring. And with the wind deflector in place, the 6 Series Convertible doesn't disappoint.

You might be in possession of a car with a well-appointed cabin complete with plenty of creature comforts but that's all secondary when you've got the roof down and you can maintain a conversation at motorway speeds.

No question, the 6 Series Convertible is a complex beast. Visually it's not a car for shy, retiring types but neither is it brash. It's not an out-and-out sports car, either. Power, performance and ability never in question, but the overall package places more emphasis on making swift, refined progress than dislodging your fillings.

For many around the world that will be an attractive compromise and job well done as far as BMW is concerned.

Renault unveils its new Bizu LE range

THE Renault Bizu Limited Edition range, now available from E J Darlington Renault in River Way, Harlow, offers Essex motorists an attractive opportunity with a price tag to match.

For a limited time only, Renault has made its popular Twingo, Clio, Mégane and Scénic models even more irresistible thanks to its new Bizu lineup.

For just £6,595 you can drive away in a brand new Twingo Bizu fitted with Bluetooth connectivity as standard. The Bizu range also boasts electric front windows and ABS with EBD (Electronic Brake Distribution), ensuring there is no compromise on your comfort or safety.

Prices for the rest of the range are just as alluring, with the Clio Bizu priced at $8,595, the Mégane Bizu at $11,595 and the Scénic Bizu at only $12,595.

What's more, motorists can win a gift simply by booking a test drive in the new Bizu range! And if that wasn't enough, Renault has also cut the costs of many of its most popular models despite the recent rise in VAT to 20 per cent.

Following the recent simplification of its car range, many best-sellers are now available at the same price or, in many instances, substantially lower by up to $2,000.

Gary Hollinshead, sales manager at E J Darlington Renault, said: "This month is certainly the time for motorists to seize the day! The new Limited Edition Bizu range offers fantastic savings on many Renault favourites but they won't be around forever. Once they're gone they're gone!"

For more information, visit www.ejdarlington.com or www.renault.co.uk/bizu, or call (01279) 439631.

for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD) A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility, www.direct.gov.uk/moto

A LACKLUSTRE display saw Harlow Ladies suffer their first defeat in 2011 when they were beaten at home by Old Loughtonians III.

17 minutes when a penalty corner was swiftly dispatched.

After the break, chances for Harlow's Petra Trimble and Sonya Amos came and went before the visitors went ahead.

A high shot was parried by Harlow keeper Linda Rowley and an opponent pounced to drill in the rebound.

Harlow searched fruitlessly for the equaliser and were unable to convert several penalty corners.

They paid for this profligacy when Old Loughts broke away to score a third on 64 minutes.

A fine cross from the right was converted at the near post.

Harlow are still third in the table.

A TEAM from Harlow Tennis Club have picked up their silverware after clinching the division one title in the Essex County LTA U-18 Junior Indoor League.

The boys side from the Latton Bush Centre club played 10 matches in total and clinched the autumn/winter league with a game to spare.

Harlow finished on 51 points, ahead of second-placed Grove LTC, from Chelmsford, Harlow's only defeat came when they fielded a weakened team at Grove in their final match, knowing they could not be caught.

Harlow's director of tennis Will Calvert said: "The boys have done very well and it's a tremendous effort. The league is very difficult to win and required a great deal of commitment around their other tennis activities." Top players Ben Stevenson (16), Ben

Ruffles (15), and Ben Miller (15) have turned out for most matches, often going on to compete in other events elsewhere on the

They have been ably supported by the rapidly-improving Jack Webber (14) and Aidan McKay (14).

The powerful Harlow squad consists entirely of home-grown talent; players that have been with the Southern Way complex from a young age.

A number of Harlow youngsters have gained recognition at county level over the last few years.

Harlow's second and third teams were respectively second and sixth in divisions 2b and 3a in their autumn/winter leagues. Results: Boys division one: 1. Harlow (51 points) 2. Grove (47) 3. Danbury (39) 4. Westcliff (29) 5. New Hall (27) 6. Thorpe Bay (15).

Rams chief hits out at lack of commitment

RAMS director of rugby Lee Harron has admitted his side have a massive task to avoid the drop and warned his squad that they ALL must come to the party.

Harlow are still marooned at the foot of the table after slipping to a heavy home defeat at third-placed Romford & Gidea Park five davs ago.

The Rams have six matches to turn it around - starting at mid-table Ipswich on Saturday.

Harron said: "It's going to be very difficult and a tall order. Five of the six games are away. We have got to take it one game [at a time] and [make

"We have got the players that can stand up, but we need all the squad to show the commitment.

"We are not in the position we are in now because of what has happened in the last few games, but because only 10 or 12 have shown the right commitment to training since pre-season.

"We need all 24 or 25 to be [commited]. It's very difficult if people are not present at training and you are going over things like line-out moves or backs moves if a few people are missing."

Romford's superior fitness and pace told over 80 minutes. Playing up the slope, Romford went ahead after 10 minutes. Despite Rob Mackie's desperate last-ditch tackle, the visitors scored a try which was converted.

Harlow reduced the deficit through a Michael Dobson penalty on 28 minutes. Romford scored an unconverted try near half-time and led 12-3. The hosts' hopes of getting back into the game were shattered four minutes into the second half when another breakaway try and conversion extended Romford's lead.

Harron said: "We were still very much in it at half-time and the next score was important. When they scored it, some heads dropped."

Harlow showed some resilience and conceded only a converted try on 64 minutes, before fatigue took its toll in the last 10 minutes.

Romford scored another two converted tries in this period.

Hawks close to big upset

Harlow Tn 1, East Thurrock Utd 1 Ryman, division one north

By ALAN SCOTT

Sports Editor alan scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Danny Chapman admitted it was a slightly disappointed dressing room on Saturday – after his Hawks had come desperately close to beating title-chasing East Thurrock United.

The visitors snatched a point when forward Sam Higgins – who had only just re-signed for the club from Blue Square South side Chelmsford City – levelled on 76 minutes, after Clark Akers had given Harlow the lead in a first half which the hosts dominated.

Thurrock keeper Richard Wray made five outstanding saves in the first period, denying Harlow Town's Leon Antoine, Lee Roache, Clark and Getro

Kilapi. "The boys were disappointed they did not get more out of it. It was a good performance," said Chapman. "Their goalkeeper had a fantastic game. We could not have done much more."

The Harlow boss named new signing striker Bertie Brayley on the bench (see back page report).

The opening half hour was end to end and Wray excellently denied Akers (shot) and Roache (header), while Harlow custodian made top stops from Reiss Gilbey (shot) and a header from Steve Sheehan.

Harlow made the breakthrough on 29 minutes when Dave Cowley's leftwing cross to the far post was met by Akers who easily out-jumped Thurrock left-back Simon Peddie to Hasell was desperately unlucky with the goal. He saved superbly from Max Cornhill's shot, but Harlow failed to clear and Higgins slammed a 25-yard piledriver into the bottom right corner. Soon after, Hasell tipped Gilbey's pressure as Hawks centre-back Laurie Stewart made a wonderful block when Higgins seemed set to grab a winner. From the same attack Stewart made an excellent goalline block from Cornhill's header.

Thurrock's ex-Dagenham striker Hakeem Araba, a sub, then somehow blazed over from two yards when it seemed easier to snatch a winner with

"We were exceptional. On another day we would have scored three or four. It was a good result and has given the boys confidence. We were disap-pointed not to take all three points," added Chapman.

Cystinosis is a rare inherited disease with an incidence in developed countries of about one case in every 200,000 live births.

Cystine is an amino acid. Cystinosis occurs when the mechanism which removes excess cystine breaks down.

It then accumulates within body cells, preventing these cells from functioning correctly.

This initially leads to kidney problems and progresses to other parts of the body, including the thyroid gland, eyes and liver.

Currently there is no cure for Cystinosis. Chapman, a London Black Cab driver, was touched by the club's decision to name the stand after Jack.

He also paid tribute to the Hawks fans who sang Jack's name after the official unveiling, which was done just prior to Saturday's 1-1 draw with East Thurrock United.

Chapman said: "Tom [Cunningham] has looked after me my whole football life. There is a special relationship between me and him and John Barnett.

"It was a fantastic gesture. Myself and my wife Sue are extremely honoured to know that Jack is now part of this great football club."

Osagie upbeat despite losing UK national title his 800m title at the Aviva UK Indoor Trials & Championships in Sheffield – but is adamant that will mean nothing come the summer.

Osagie, from Harlow, had to settle for silver in the Steel City 12 months after scooping his first national crown. Cardiff's Joe Thomas topped the podium by the narrowest of margins in a stadium record time.

The 22-year-old Harlow Athletic Club member clocked 1 minute 47.96 seconds at the English Institute of Sport, with Thomas just beating him to the line to win by nine hundredths of a second.

Thomas had built up a big lead, but a tremendous finish from the defending champ made it very close to call.

Osagie was pleased with silver and believes it can help him earn selection as part of the Aviva GB&NI team for the World Championships in South Korea in August.

"The outdoor season is my main focus and now I really want to make the British team for the World Championships – that is my main aim," said Osagie, of Northbrooks.

The highly-rated middledistance runner will return to the track at this weekend's Grand Prix in Birmingham, the latest in the Aviva Series viewed as a crucial stepping stone in his Olympics in London.

"I have been out to Kenya to train recently and I have been doing a lot more speed work and I certainly think I'm getting quicker so I don't see why I

"I will focus on Birmingham now before anything else and just try and improve on what I did in Sheffield there and doing that will be important.

"It was great to get out and compete again. I am running well at the moment and I hope I can keep up the good work I have been doing."

UKA head coach Charles van Commence will not call on Osagie for for next month's European Indoor Championships in Sheffield.

Van Commenee will not consider athletes who competed at October's Commonwealth Games. Osagie reached the 800m semi-finals in Delhi.

"The Commonwealth Games was a good experience for me and the busy multi-sport events like that are great and will set me up perfectly in the future," he added.

"I believe I am heading in the right direction, but I need to keep improving if I am to hit my targets."

Key players set to return

Injured trio's comeback a boost for Hawks

BOSS Danny Chapman is By ALAN SCOTT hoping for a treble boost ahead of a key period of two league matches in four days as Hawks continue their late charge for a play-off spot.

Central defender Leo Roget (back), utility player Mark Taylor (hip) and left-back Sacha Opinel (calf) could all be included in the squad for the matches away to Cheshunt (on Saturday) and at home to Redbridge (on Tuesday).

The trio were set to play in a reserve league game at Cheshunt last night (Wednesday).

Chapman could also give a first start to new signing Bertie Brayley.

The Hawks boss swooped on for the ex-Bishop's Stortford player, who can play either up front or on the wing.

Sports Editor alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

He has joined on a permanent deal from Ryman premier club Billericay and came on as a sub in the 1-1 draw against East Thurrock United on Saturday.

"Bertie can play in different positions. Where we might get the best out of him is in the hole [behind a striker]. He will keep the ball. He's a good player," said Chapman.

Midfielder Leon Lalite (shoulder) should be fit, while Chapman will have no qualms about contin-uing to play skipper Danny Brown at left-back, where he has excelled in recent games.

"Danny [Brown] had two years at left-back for Crawley in the Conference. He has been fantastic," said Chapman. Cheshunt could be shorn of both the strikers who cut down the Hawks in the corresponding fixture at Barrows Farm in the autumn.

Darryl Cox is unavailable due to work commitments, while Chris Meikle – the subject of a bid from Harlow in October – has not played for the Ambers since just after Christmas.

That 4-3 defeat heralded the start of an awful run for Harlow which ended with the departure of boss Kevin Warren in January.

However, on the back of one defeat in five Harlow are certainly in form heading to Theobalds

Lane.

HTFC stand is named in honour of manager's late son

JOHN Barnett, the Harlow Town chairman, paid tribute to Danny Chapman after one of the stands was officially named in honour of the manager's late son.

Jack Chapman was just 18 months old when he tragically died in April 2009. He suffered from a genetic condition called Cystinosis.

The roofed stand opposite the main stand at Barrows Farm will now be known as The Jack Chapman Stand.

Barnett and Hawks co-owner Tom Cunningham have known Chapman and his family for more than 12 years, since he was a young central defender learning his trade at League Two club Barnet.

The Harlow chairman, a former director at Underhill, told the Star: "This was something I really wanted to do. I have got enormous respect for Danny. I have known him since he was a
